Though fortified with a formidable measure of alcohol, a depressant, absinthe is also infused with powerful herbal stimulants, creating a psychic tug of war in the mind of the imbiber. Alcohol relaxes inhibitions and invites in new ideas, and the stimulants allow you to logically process the new data. Foremost of the stimulants is thujone, the psychoactive chemical at the heart of the herb wormwood, which, along with anisette, gives absinthe its bitter, black liquorish taste. While once thought to instigate similar reactions as marijuana’s THC, recent research suggests it modulates the neurotransmitter GABAA, which plays a vital role in cognitive thought. Subsequently, absinthe provides a level of clarity not usually associated with alcoholic drinks.

Manet, Rimbaud, Jarry, Van Gogh, Gauguin, Degas, Toulouse-Lautrec and Picasso were all heavy users, and if asked, they would tell you they needed the narcotic properties of absinthe to get out of their head enough to render art that had never even been thought of by more conventional artists. Lautrec carried his supply in a hollow cane, Jarry paid homage by painting himself green, Verlaine's presumptuous manner of saying hello became, "I take sugar with it!"

Absinthe Couperose

Absinthe Couperose is our first red absinthe. Different quantities of herbs added during maceration give a very distinctive bitter flavour to this unique red Absinthe. Absinthe Couperose stands for youth, strenght and singularity. This absinthe is due to its red colour and very distinctive flavour more than suitable for absinthe cocktails. However, if you like your drinks strong then you can drink Absinthe Couperose neat. All in all, a more intense experience for those able to handle it. Contains 10 mg/kg of thujone. Alcohol by volume: 60% Bottle size: 50cl (16.91oz) Thujone: 10 mg/kg

Did you know...?

Absinthe, the once much-reviled brew, gained most of its infamy through the manufacture of inferior products during the French Absinthe heyday, when wine supplies dropped dramatically. In the scramble to capitalise on the massive demand for Absinthe, many companies began creating foul 'Absinthe' coloured with Copper Sulphate and with Ammonia added to create the "all-important Louche". Both of these chemicals are highly toxic when ingested...

Absinthe Original

Absinthe Original is made by craftsmen distillers to a secret 200 year old Swiss absinthe recipe and it is said by connoisseurs to compare with the rarest French cognacs. The complex and distinguished taste is rounded up by a well blended herbal mix with pronounced taste of wormwood and coriander. In its elegant new bottle, this original absinthe looks good, it tastes good, it is good. Only the highest quality ingredients are used in its manufacture and it is guaranteed to be free of artificial colourants and chemicals. Absinthe Original contains many herbal extracts including angelica, aniseed, fennel, hyssop, juniper, nutmeg and wormwood (which contains the neurotoxin thujone).

Absinthe Original's fine deep olive green color occurs as a result of its natural ingredients with no artificial colorings added. This also explains why the color may appear slightly different from one bottle to the next. Absinthe Original may also change color over time. This is what makes our absinthe the most authentic and desired brand in the market. In fact, these subtle variations in color have always been considered the hallmark of high-quality, genuine Absinthe and in the Belle Epoque period it actually distinguished a genuine Absinthe from an imitation or artificially colored products. Always drink absinthe well chilled either with a little sugar and water or as a base for your favourite absinthe drink. Either way, La Boheme Absinthe Original is one of life's great pleasures. Alcohol by volume: 70%Bottle size: 70cl (23.67oz)Thujone: 15 mg/kgAbsinthe is culture, absinthe is history and absinthe is lifestyle. Did you know...?

The medicinal use of wormwood dates back to at least 1600 B.C. The Egyptians used the bitter herb as an antiseptic, a stimulant and tonic, and as a remedy for fevers and menstrual pains. The Greeks prescribed it for jaundice, rheumatism and anemia. The Romans used wormwood to aid digestion, for upset stomach and to cure bad breath. The leaves of the shrub-like perennial were also used to expel intestinal worms, hence its English name.
Absinthe Original Bitter Spirit

Absinthe Original Bitter Spirit, 35mg of thujone. Real absinthe prepared from carefully selected herbs, the main being grand wormwood - also known as grande absinthe, common wormwood or artemisia absinthium - the main herb in the genuine absinthe containing thujone. Absinthe Original Bitter Spirit is made by craftsmen distillers to a secret 200 year old Swiss absinthe recipe and it is said by connoisseurs to compare with the rarest French cognacs.

Every single detail from appearance to finish has been taken into account with a really nice balance of wormwood and fennel. Only the highest quality ingredients are used in its manufacture and it is guaranteed to be free of artificial colourants and chemicals. Absinthe Original Bitter Spirit contains many herbal extracts including angelica, aniseed, fennel, hyssop, juniper, nutmeg and wormwood (which contains the neurotoxin thujone). With a fine olive green color and 35 mg/kg of thujone, Absinthe Original Bitter Spirit offers the connoisseur the genuine Belle Epoque absinthe experience, and makes an impressively prestigious addition to any collection of fine liquors. A fine olive green color of Absinthe Original Bitter Spirit occurs as a result of its natural ingredients with no artificial colorings added. This also explains why the color may appear slightly different from one bottle to the next. Drink it well chilled with a little sugar and water or as a base for your favourite absinthe cocktail. Asides from alcohol, original absinthe contains a number of different psychoactive substances. Among these thujone is of major importance, a substance released by the wormwood plant, known under the name artemisia absinthium. The effects of real absinthe can be mood brightening, stimulating even euphorizing.

Absinthe Original Innocent

Absinthe Original Innocent is also available in this handsomely designed smaller bottle. Despite its pocket size, this absinthe bottle contains 19.5cl (6.594oz) of absinthe fairy which makes it ideal as a gift or a surprise for unique party, either way you can be assured that our Innocent absinthe will get you the best absinthe experience. As well as our other fine absinthe originals, this absinthe drink contains no artificial colorings, additives or preservatives. Absinthe Original Innocent is being distilled using 11 plants, including angelica and grande wormwood. Steeping a mixture of herbs in the distillate produces its natural green colour, the taste of Absinthe Original Innocent is just as original absinthe was meant to be. It accomplishes what many other absinthes are just trying to accomplish. It is a refined combination that makes no attempts at being overly complex just to stand out. Absinthe Innocent is a fine liquor based on fennel, anise and wormwood. These and other herbs give the fabled Fée Verte, or Green Fairy, her grassy color. Our Innocent Absinthe has been created in response to many requests we have had for a wormwood absinthe that is lower in alcohol, is slightly more bitter but which still has all the characteristics that give absinthes their reputation. Due to its lower content of alcohol, Absinthe Innocent is ideal for the first time drinker, for women or as a base in many cocktail recipes. Alcohol by volume: 45%. Bottle size: 19.5cl (6.594oz). Thujone: 35 mg/kg. There are different ways of drinking absinthe, for some suggestions see our absinthe drinks section.

Did you know...?

Absinthe became one of the first liquors to crack the gender barrier, much as the speakeasies did during America’s bout with prohibition. Unlike the established and conservative liquor companies, the young turks of the absinthe trade directed advertising at women. Consequently, absinthe cafes and clubs promoted a level of drinking equality previously unknown in France.

Absinthe Original Innocent

Absinthe Innocent is a great absinthe for the first time drinker and due to its lower content of alcohol it is also ideal for women or as a main ingredient in cocktail recipes. Absinthe Original Innocent is a genuine Verte Suisse absinthe liquor, distilled using 11 plants, including angelica and grande wormwood. Steeping a mixture of aromatic plants in the distillate produces its natural green colour. The taste of this real absinthe is just as absinthe was meant to be. It accomplishes what many other absinthes are just trying to accomplish. It is a refined combination that makes no attempts at being overly complex just to stand out. The background herbs dance around the dominant flavors in a delicate and complimentary way. Now, for the first time since 1912, you too can legally partake of absinthe, thanks to the European Union's pointing out a loophole in the U.S. ban. Absinthe Innocent is a fine liquor based on anise, fennel and wormwood. These and other herbs give the fabled Fée Verte, or Green Fairy, her grassy color. When the chlorophyll dies, absinthe turns, like fallen leaves, to a highly prized dark amber hue. Our Innocent Absinthe has been created in response to many requests we have had for a thujone absinthe that is lower in alcohol, is slightly more bitter but which still has all the characteristics that give absinthes their reputation. It is a fine addition to our range of original absinthes.Alcohol by volume: 45%Bottle size: 70cl (23.67oz)Thujone: 35 mg/kgWhether you're buying absinthe for yourself, as a gift, or for a unique party, you can be assured that Absinthe Original Innocent will get you the best absinthe experience.

Did you know...?

By the mid-1870s the green hour had become a daily ritual at many of Paris’ 366,000 bars and cafes. From 1875 to 1913 the annual consumption of absinthe per inhabitant in France increased fifteen times, by 1913 drinkers were consuming 10.5 million gallons of absinthe a year. The French referred to this wild era as “the great collective binge”, for it seemed as if the entire nation was drunk on absinthe.

Absinthe flavors are subtle and influenced by a variety of factors including herbs, alcohol content, and the brewing process.

Did you know...?

The modern liquor known as absinthe was first produced in the late 18th century in the Val-de-Travers region of Switzerland, where a bounty of wormwood and other alpine herbs grows wild. Pierre Ordinaire, a French doctor, is believed to have invented absinthe in 1792 as a potent patent medicine, although "bon extrait d'absinthe" had been advertised in the region as early as 1769. By the late 1790s, Ordinaire's herbal elixir had already acquired the nickname la fee verte - Green Fairy.

Did you know...?

The modern version of absinthe can be traced back to the modest Swiss laboratory of Pierre Ordinaire, a French doctor who'd fled to Switzerland in the wake of the French Revolution. In 1792 he combined local herbs, fennel, wormwood, hyssop and anise among others, in an alcohol base. He prescribed and sold the 136 proof concoction as a cure-all medicinal tonic. It soon garnered the nickname the la Fee Verte (the Green Fairy) due to its translucent hue and the strange effect it had on its imbibers.
Becherovka
Becherovka liquor
Becherovka is a traditional herbal recipe suitable for modern cocktails or a simple aperitif, which has a thoroughbred pedigree. Becherovka was relaunched due to the demand of many existing customers achieving great success throughout London’s fashionable theme bars and chic eateries. Becherovka liquor was created in 1805 at Karlovy Vary (Carlsbad) in the present day Czech Republic. Becherovka is renown as having good medicinal properties with regard to stomach ailments. This delicious and unusual drink is ideal as the main ingredient in cocktails. Its well balanced unforgettable taste can also be appreciated when served neat, especially well chilled. Jan Becher has prepared a great surprise for Becherovka lovers. Becherovka in new packaging has recently started appearing in shops, bars, and restaurants. At the same time, the revamped design of the label is just the first step of a new communication strategy intended to rejuvenate and refresh the overall image of Becherovka - one of the best-known and most popular Czech brands on the alcohol market. ### Did you know...?

To the absinthe connoisseur, an absinthe fountain is more than just a decorative water dispenser. As all serious absintheurs know, a quality louche cannot be achieved by merely sloshing water into a glass of absinthe; instead, a steady drizzle is required to witness the exquisite transformation of colour and to accomplish the all-important release of essential herbal oils. Although chilled water may be poured slowly from a jug or carafe, absinthe fountains have long served as handy accessories that help to unlock the beauty, power, effects and true taste of great absinthe.

Absinthe Spoon

Our newest absinthe spoon is a replica of a spoon called Les Cuilleres with a separate sugar cradle in the middle of the handle. Some of the larger absinthe glasses can only be used with this type of spoon. Used for serving absinthe in the time-honoured way these absinthe spoons are made exclusively for La Bohème UK. Absinthe serving instructions:

First you pour roughly three ounces of absinthe into a heavy parfait-style stemmed absinthe glass. A perforated absinthe spoon (sometimes very elaborately so) is set upon the rim of the glass and on the spoon is placed a cube of sugar. Ice-cold water is ever so slowly dripped from a glass carafe designed specifically for that purpose, onto the cube. The sugar dissolves and you continue pouring until the ratio of absinthe to water is about two to five parts, depending upon your taste and fortitude. Give the absinthe drink a spin with the spoon and drink like you dripped - slowly.

Absinthe Spoon

Highly polished Absinthe spoon based on the traditional 19th century design. This absinthe spoon is a high quality reproduction of the very popular Toulouse Lautrec absinthe spoons that were made from quality stainless sheet. French Absinthe ritual:

First you pour roughly three ounces of absinthe into a heavy parfait-style stemmed absinthe glass. A sometimes elaborately perforated absinthe spoon is set upon the rim of the glass and on the spoon is placed a cube of sugar. Ice-cold water is ever so slowly dripped from a glass carafe designed specifically for that purpose, onto the cube. The sugar dissolves and you continue pouring until the ratio of absinthe to water is about two to five parts, depending upon your taste and fortitude. Give the absinthe drink a spin with the spoon and drink like you dripped - slowly.

Genuine Antique Absinthe (or Absinth) spoons are prized collectibles and hard to find given the long time prohibition on the drink. Our reproductions capture the elegance of a lost age when Absinthe was a part of artistic and social life. Now that absinthe is legal again, you can recreate the opulent feeling of times past with this traditional spoon design.

Absinthe Spoon

This absinthe spoon is a chromium plated replica of les fleches. This spoon has been uniquely crafted and commissioned for Absinthe Original to allow absintheurs the ability for traditional absinthe serving, as was done in the 19th century. Buy absinthe spoons and accessories and have them delivered in a few working days directly to your door. Absinthe serving instructions:

First you pour roughly three ounces of absinthe into a heavy parfait-style stemmed absinthe glass. A perforated absinthe spoon (sometimes very elaborately so) is set upon the rim of the glass and on the spoon is placed a cube of sugar. Ice-cold water is ever so slowly dripped from a glass carafe designed specifically for that purpose, onto the cube. The sugar dissolves and you continue pouring until the ratio of absinthe to water is about two to five parts, depending upon your taste and fortitude. True absintheurs used to take great care in adding the water, letting it fall drop by single drop onto the sugar cube. Give the absinthe drink a spin with the spoon and drink like you dripped - slowly.

| Absinthe Zippo Lighter       | Absinthe Zippo Lighter from Absinthe Original. Perfect for Absinthe Fans and Zippo lighter collectors! Enthusiasts of Zippo lighters will be delighted by this new design that is available only from Absinthe Original. With artwork by artist Kyle Cunningham they are bound to be sort after, so make sure of yours by ordering today. Absinthe Zippo lighter that sports a classic Green Fairy image has been exclusively made for La Boheme. Each highly polished chrome Zippo lighter is supplied in a presentation box. This edition is limited to few hundred items only, so these Absinthe Zippos are short to go fast. Did you know...?

The Zippo was created in Bradford, Pennsylvania by George G. Blaisdell in 1932. After obtaining some designs for an Austrian windproof lighter, he used those to create his own rectangular shaped, windproof lighter with a hinged lid and a windhood for the flame. Fascinated by the recent invention of the zipper in a nearby Pennsylvania town, George loved the sound of the name so decided to call his windproof lighters Zippos. Since the first one was manufactured in 1932, each Zippo has come with a Lifetime Guarantee that guarantees the lighter, or Zippo fixes it for free. Save a few minor changes in the flint wheel and case finishes, the Zippo remains nearly exactly as George Blaisdell created it 74 years ago. The American-made quality and Lifetime Guarantee makes the Zippo lighter a valuable collector's item around the world, with collectors' clubs in England, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Japan, and of course, the United States. |

Lady Absinthe Fountain

A perfect, fully functional exact reproduction of the most famous absinthe fountain style, with four working taps. If you are into Absinthe in a serious way, you need one of these! It is used to drip the water (over sugar usually) into a glass of absinthe from a height to help dissolve the sugar and for a little bar theater. Handmade, mouthblown glass, metallic type plating over brass with four spouts and spigots for up to four glasses of absinthe at one time - showy and eliminates the line at parties. Casting is solid, heavy and decently done. Fit and finish is excellent if not fine, especially considering the price. 8 inches under the spout will accommodate all glasses and still have plenty of fall to dissolve sugar (and look nice).

Please note that this absinthe fountain is shipped carefully packaged and will require some easy assembly. This involves simply connecting the base to the bowl and placing the cover on top.

Water capacity 68oz (2 litres)
Overall height just under 24” (60cm)
Height under taps 12” (31cm)

Did you know...?

The proper addition of water to absinthe can not be over stressed. You can certainly add water to your absinthe by using a carafe and many people do. But to get the complete flavor from your drink, you really need an absinthe fountain. The high alcohol concentration of absinthe keeps all of the herbs and spices used in its production suspended in solution. You could say that the herbs are "hidden" or "locked away" inside the undiluted elixir. When the water is added, the alcohol concentration begins to fall and the herbal oils start to precipitate out of the solution. This is how all of the flavor and aroma of the absinthe is enjoyed. The rate at which you add the water will change the taste of the drink drastically. A fast dripped absinthe will taste different than a slow dripped absinthe. The best method to prepare an absinthe is with a very slow drip using the purest, coldest water you can find.

Absinthe Fountain

This elegant art deco absinthe fountain has four robinettes (faucets), it is our flagship fountain, not only an accurate reproduction of the classic Belle Epoque absinthe fountain, but the most robust, practical fountain made anywhere. Made from quality stainless steel and brass, this absinthe fountain fully comply with EU food safety standards. It stands a tall 20.25 inches high making this the perfect fountain for slowly dripping ice water over sugar cubes into glasses of absinthe. The handmade plated brass base and mouth blown bowl make this fountain top quality. The clearance from the robinets to the base is 8 inches. We recommend this absinthe fountain without reservation.

Water capacity 68oz (2 litres)
Overall height just under 21" (52cm)
Height under taps 8.6" (22cm)

Did you know...?

To the absinthe connoisseur, an absinthe fountain is more than just a decorative water dispenser. As all serious absintheurs know, a quality louche cannot be achieved by merely sloshing water into a glass of absinthe; instead, a steady drizzle is required to witness the exquisite transformation of colour and to accomplish the all-important release of essential herbal oils. Although chilled water may be poured slowly from a jug or carafe, absinthe fountains have long served as handy accessories that help to unlock the beauty, power, effects and true taste of great absinthe.

Absinthe Spoon

Our newest absinthe spoon is a replica of a spoon called Les Cuilleres with a separate sugar cradle in the middle of the handle. Some of the larger absinthe glasses can only be used with this type of spoon. Used for serving absinthe in the time-honoured way these absinthe spoons are made exclusively for La Boheme UK. Absinthe serving instructions:

First you pour roughly three ounces of absinthe into a heavy parfait-style stemmed absinthe glass. A perforated absinthe spoon (sometimes very elaborately so) is set upon the rim of the glass and on the spoon is placed a cube of sugar. Ice-cold water is ever so slowly dripped from a glass carafe designed specifically for that purpose, onto the cube. The sugar dissolves and you continue pouring until the ratio of absinthe to water is about two to five parts, depending upon your taste and fortitude. Give the absinthe drink a spin with the spoon and drink like you dripped - slowly.

Absinthe Spoon

Highly polished Absinthe spoon based on the traditional 19th century design. This absinthe spoon is a high quality reproduction of the very popular Toulouse Lautrec absinthe spoons that were made from quality stainless sheet. French Absinthe ritual:

First you pour roughly three ounces of absinthe into a heavy parfait-style stemmed absinthe glass. A sometimes elaborately perforated absinthe spoon is set upon the rim of the glass and on the spoon is placed a cube of sugar. Ice-cold water is ever so slowly dripped from a glass carafe designed specifically for that purpose, onto the cube. The sugar dissolves and you continue pouring until the ratio of absinthe to water is about two to five parts, depending upon your taste and fortitude. Give the absinthe drink a spin with the spoon and drink like you dripped - slowly.

Genuine Antique Absinthe (or Absinth) spoons are prized collectibles and hard to find given the long time prohibition on the drink. Our reproductions capture the elegance of a lost age when Absinthe was a part of artistic and social life. Now that absinthe is legal again, you can recreate the opulent feeling of times past with this traditional spoon design.
